Decision Still to Come on Selection Of School to Be Closed by Next June

No decisions or recommendations about closing a school have been made, USE chairman Sally McFarlane emphasized once again this week, as the "Using Schools Effectively" committee prepared for summer vacation.

Johnson Park School has deed restrictions, reported school board counsel James McLaughlin, requiring that the property be used for a public school and public park reached by a public road.

Only one of USE's five sub-committees has made a suggestion regarding Johnson Park and that suggestion itself was qualified, Mrs. McFarlane explained. The Re-districting sub-committee said that if the schools decided to keep a K-5 set-up (kindergarten through fifth grade), Johnson Park should be closed, however, the committee will discuss that view again, when other options come forward.

For example, following a survey of teachers by the Educational Options sub-committee, the committee has "tentatively concluded" the following: if a school must be closed, teachers say they prefer a K-5 grouping in the remaining three schools; and if four schools remain open, they still prefer the K-5 group. As a third choice, they suggest a K-6 grouping if the four schools remain open.

Parents are asked to indicate their own preferences on a questionnaire which can be picked up at any school office, the public library or the Board of Education office in the Valley Road building.

After completion, it should be mailed to: Educational Options Sub-committee, Box 711, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Regarding the Johnson Park restrictions, Mrs. McFarlane points out that the building could be used for Mercer County's Special Services classes, or for state-operated private schools for the handicapped.

"Or," she remarked, "we could contest the deed."

A so-called "magnet" school, with emphasis on a particular field such as art or science, is too drastic a step to be taken with only a year's preparation, it has been decided. The Educational Options sub-committee will suggest study for the future.

USE wants to know three things from Superintendent Paul Houston, and has asked him to put his responses in writing:

1. What is the "educational cost" – not the dollar cost – of declining enrollment?
2. If the four elementary schools are kept open with fewer than 300 students in each, how would the educational program be affected?
3. If teacher salaries go higher than the seven percent allowed in the budget, what budget adjustments will be made?

It has also been suggested, by USE member Allen Grossman, that a head count of children and where they live, be made now, in advance of 1980 census figures.

The "Using Schools Effectively" committee is a citizen-group appointed by the school board to recommend which of Princeton's four elementary schools should be converted to other uses. A committee led by Joan Doig recommended last year that the board close a school after the 1980-81 year because of declining enrollments. USE has a November deadline for its recommendation.

Palmer Square Merchants Angry Over Higher Rents and New Leases

Palmer Square vs. Nassau Hall – the lines were drawn this week as merchants who rent Square stores let out their outrage over new leases: rent increases of around 20 percent, short-tether one-year leases, requirements to stay open Thursday and Friday nights, pay a rent percentage for co-operative advertising, increase liability coverage.

Or else – be forced to stay on a month-to-month basis only.

Deadline for signing is this Friday, but many merchants were saying "I won't sign" even as they expressed such fear, perhaps of reprisal, that some refused to allow their names to be used in a news story.

A majority of the 22 Square tenants scheduled a meeting for this Tuesday evening at the Nassau Club to plan strategy.

The leader of the group is Alan Frank, who owns Langrock's, a pilot store in a prime location at 42 Nassau. There has never been a tenants' association among Palmer Square merchants – too individualistic a bunch, one merchant said.

"We don't want to fight, we want to reason," Mr. Frank says. "We haven't been met on a reasonable basis. They're used to hiring all kinds of consultants – well, we should have been consulted."

Princeton University is the majority stockholder in Palmer Square, Inc. Carl Schafer, the University's vice-president for finance, is president of PSI. University trustees are searching for a buyer or leasor for the entire Square.

Most shops have had three-year leases, and tenants say there has been a cost-of-living increase each year of a lease. "A five to eight percent increase was reasonable – no reason to raise Cain," said one.

But some tenants were given a six-month lease last January incorporating a 15 percent raise. The new July 1 lease with a 20 percent increase, makes a 35 percent hike over an 18-month period. Another tenant said, "What they think of retailers is, you turn on the spigot and it's there! But my volume hasn't gone up 30 percent."

Tenants believe the increase is a way of decorating the showcase for someone who wants to buy.

"They're trying to make it look fantastic for a buyer, but what about previous years, before the rent increase? A buyer will look at those figures, too," says Carol Allen, owner of Milady. "And you get a 20 percent increase for a lousy one-year lease! It's an insult to your intelligence and integrity."

Tenants also believe that the new leases are a lever to pry loose a few shops PSI would just as soon not have around. Mr. Schafer and Jack Yeoman, who is PSI treasurer, say this is not so.

"Absolutely not!" Mr. Schafer stated. "We are not trying to weed anybody out. Short-term leases are to preserve options for a future owner or leasor. The leases haven't been designed with any specific intent to change – or not to change – tenants.

"They sound like big increases, but often a lease has been at one level for quite a while. The policy isn't rent-gouging, it simply reflects inflation and true market rents. Even after the increases, the rent isn't up to full market rent, in many cases."

No tenant interviewed said the rent had been at one level "for quite a while."

Mr. Schafer says it's against PSI policy to publicize lease details, but Mr. Yeoman explained gneral policies. Nassau Street stores, he said, pay 40 percent more than others; Nassau to Clayton's is in the middle range; from Clayton's on down the Square is the least expensive, with premiums for stores like Applegate's and Cousins that have display windows on the passageway.

One store on the upper reaches of the Square will pay $13,632 a year under the new lease. Another, farther down the Square, will pay slightly over $9,600.

Basement rent is charged at a different rate from upstairs selling space. The upper-Square figure is $12.50 a square foot for upstairs space, $3 for the basement.

Two big stores have longer leases. LaVake's is now in the second five-year period of a ten-year lease, according to owner Sam Kind. Clayton's, with three stores, has both long and short leases. The shop is now negotiating for a fourth space, where the Princeton Gift Shop used to be.

All merchants point out, and Mr. Yeoman concedes, that a one-year lease is hard to live with. If you want to sell your business, a buyer isn't interested. The Clothesline, which will close June 30 after 32 years on the Square, had a prospective buyer – but the buyer didn't want a one-year lease, according to owners Bess and Hermina Herman.

Laster, PSI officials say, they hope a new owner of the Square will offer multi-year leases. Incidentally, the Square's buyer must abide by these 1980 leases, under the law.

Besides a rent increase and a short lease, evening hours anger tenants. Many say they are afraid of crime. Many shops have valuable inventories. Many merchants say they have the kind of off-beat business that doesn't respond to Thursday and Friday evening shopping with Mom and Pop and the kids.

"I sell thousand-dollar custom-made suits!" exclaimed Josef Borg. "If my client wants an evening appointment, I make one. Why can't I close on Saturday all day if I want to? The freedom and pride of the small, individualistic shop is being taken away."

"I tried nights for six weeks," one tenant shrugged. "We just burned lights and had a staff here. It didn't work."

But Sam Kind doesn't agree.

"Thursday and Friday night shopping is the best thing for the town," he says. "We're all stores that get our business from the public, and if we don't show the public we're interested in them, they'll go to the malls. Anybody in

Hopewell Plans Community Day Saturday: Flea Market, Crafts, Music, Food, Etc.

A day-long Hopewell Community Day, sponsored by the Hopewell Business Associates, will be celebrated Saturday from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. at the Princeton Bank grounds off East Broad Street.

Among the events planned are a puppet show, flea market, crafts and art show, antique engines exhibit, hot air balloon rides, Chinese auction and bake-off contest. Food concessions will be in operation all day long.

Music will be provided by the Scrimshaw from 2 to 6 and by Memorabilia from 7 to 11 p.m.

Highlighting the games and contests planned throughout the day is the Hopewell Challenge, a 10 kilometer run (6.2 miles) co-sponsored by the Hopewell Valley Deborah Chapter and Business Associates. There will also be a two-mile "Fun Run."

The 10K will start at 10 a.m. at 84 East Broad Street. There will be six classes for men and women: 14 and under, 15-19, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, and 50 and over. The first four finishers in each class will receive ribbons, while all finishers will receive a T-shirt.

Pre-registration fees (through this Wednesday) are $4 for the 10K race and $3.50 for the 2-mile; day-of-the-race registration fees are $5 and $4. The hilly, scenic course, which follows Van Dyke Road, Feather Bed Lane and Rileyville Road-Greenwood Avenue, will have splits at all mile points.

this day and age who doesn't realize the shopping patterns of the working woman – should get out of the retail business. They're like a bunch of ostriches, waiting for the public to come to THEM!"

Still another source of anger is the new requirement to contribute half of one month's rent each year toward co-operative advertising. Tenants predict gloomily that it will be a big Nassau Inn ad, with stores given small space at the bottom–and criticism of the Inn and especially its food, is sharp.

All In One Boat. But Mr. Schafer says no.

"We're all working for the same objective. A co-operative ad gives a more united image of the whole Square, an image of liveliness. If each store were off by itself somewhere, there would be less benefit to all. And evening hours, also, would be to the advantage of everyone, especially the customers."

PSI officials and Mr. Schafer emphasize that the lease is a perfectly legal document--"it's legal, and we're doing what we think is right," Mr. Schafer said–but some merchants are talking about seeing a lawyer. The lease was drafted in the University's legal department.

"I don't think that lease was written by a gentleman," one tenant said flatly. "I'm used to the arrogance of the University, but I always felt they were all for the good of the community and the Square tenants. Maybe they still feel this way. You'd never know it from this lease."

Tenants, all 22, were invited to private discussions with Mr. Yeoman before leases were drawn up. Because of widespread anger, PSI eliminated a clause requiring tenants to show their books to the landlord.

Insurance a Factor. Under the new lease, tenants must have $300,000 liability–for one tenant, a three-fold increase. There has never been a liability requirement before, although many stores have such insurance. PSI wants merchants to name PSI as "co-insuree," to protect PSI if both landlord and tenant should be sued.

Everett Garretson of Clayton's says the University is "making a great mistake" in selling the Square. He'd like to see the University "hire the best management they can afford, set up a long-range plan to create the kind of shopping environment that will make Princeton viable. No other town in central New Jersey is an oasis like Princeton. They should tear down the Playhouse, expand the Square with more apartments, some offices, shops, parking."

He also protests the Square's physical condition (eroded steps were repaired early this week at One Palmer Square), but Mr. Schafer shakes his head–no major new capital investments while the Square is on the market.

Many tenants expressed a sense of uncaring on the part of PSI. They said they'd never seen Mr. Schafer.

"When Fred Blaicher was running the Square," one said, "he'd poke his head in the door, ask if everything was OK. We never get that now."

No firm buyer or leasor in sight, although many are inquiring, Mr. Schafer says. One tenant suggests purchase by a giant conglomerate as a tax write-off.

Tenants have been on the Square a long time: Clayton's, 43 years; Langrock's, 37; Town Shop, 28; Clothesline, 32; Silver Shop, 32. How many will sign on again when Friday comes around?

Time a Major Factor as Two Large Developers Seek Approval Of Total of 261 Township Homes Before New Zoning Is Drawn

The ticking of clocks is heard in the land, as Township Committee races to draft new zoning ordinances under the new Master Plan and two big developers--Gibbs and Hill and Princeton University--race to beat the new ordinances and win approval for a total of 261 new homes in the northwest Township.

In Gibbs and Hill's first round with the Environmental Design Review Committee in the Valley Road building Monday night, two hours were spent on 20 out of 79 "deficiencies" listed by Township Engineer Bhagwan Dass relating to Gibbs and Hill's plan for 97 houses on its 228-acre property. A meeting was scheduled for this Tuesday, 4:30 to 6:30, in the hope of resolving the remainder.

Meanwhile, across Witherspoon Street in Township Hall that same Monday night, Township Committee was in the throes of its second zoning map session, the first having been held last Thursday.

Committee's first action under the new Master Plan will be introduction this Wednesday at 8 p.m. of ordinances and revised zoning map:

- Creating two new Residential zones, one of four acres and one of three, in the northwest Township near Cherry Hill and Province Line.
- Retaining the Master Plan's new Office-Research Four zone in the same "ridge" area, with mixed OR-Residential use, the OR requiring 20-acre minimum lot size, and the Residential the four-acre minimum.

All the while, everybody is aware of Princeton University's new agreement with the Planning Board, signed last Wednesday. It protects--the University hopes--its "Pretty Brook" application to build 164 houses on a 360-acre parcel in the very area where Township Committee has busily been zoning; in fact, 100 of the University's 360 acres are in the new OR zone. All the land is in a two-acre Residential zone under current--also defined as "old"--zoning.

Highlights of the University's agreement with the Planning Board:

- The Board will reach a decision about "Pretty Brook" by July 24; if it doesn't, the application is automatically approved.

- If Township Committee makes a fundamental zoning change--like those outlined above--the Board will consider the University's application under both old and new ordinances. If it rejects the application under the new ordinance, it will state that the application would have been approved under the old ordinance, but the old ordinance doesn't exist.
- If the new ordinance is in effect July 24 and the Board says it needs more data, the current, "old" ordinance will govern the situation.

Deadline Cited. At issue here is the University's claim that the "Pretty Brook" application was "complete" March 4. Under law, the Planning Board must review an application within 95 days after "completion" or the application is automatically approved. That period, the University points out, ended June 7.

But Mr. Dass said the application was not complete, that it lacked information about certain sewer requirements, road data, cross-sections of water courses and the like, and did not become complete until May 7, thereby pushing the deadline ahead into August. Township Committee has been working to complete its new ordinances in July.

In the agreement, the University reserves the right to continue to claim that the application was complete March 4. It will not claim that it is entitled to automatic approval because there was no action by June 7, but it will claim automatic approval if no action is taken by the Planning Board's July 24 meeting. The Planning Board agreed to withdraw a request to the courts for temporary restraint.

Eugene McPartland, general manager of planning, plant and properties for the University, points out that if the Planning Board turns down "Pretty Brook" under the new ordinance, but says the project would have been approved under the old, the University could go to court.

"We could tell the court we were 'complete' 95 days before the new ordinance and if the court agreed, we'd win," Mr. McPartland explained.

It is expected that "Pretty Brook" will be on the EDRC's July agenda, or possibly on a special meeting agenda.

Viewpoints Way. Like the University, Gibbs and Hill claimed before the EDRC Monday that it was "complete," and attorney Gordon Strauss cited a mid-April letter from Mr. Dass to prove it.

However, on June 10, Mr. Dass listed his 79 "deficiencies." When assistant Township engineer Peter Kneski explained that the Township routinely makes an overall intensive review following the decision on "completeness," Mr. Strauss protested that he was never told of such a procedure.

He told the EDRC that his client's project had the lowest possible density and open space, but did not conform to the new Master Plan.

"Is that the reason for this unusual urgency and pressure, to squeeze in before the Master Plan goes any further?" asked EDRC chair man Ulrich Frank.

Mr. Strauss disclaimed any "pressure," and said that whether Gibbs and Hill is trying to "squeeze" had no application to the merits of the case. Although he said most of the deficiencies" were unacceptable, he agreed to discuss them as emanating from the EDRC itself.

The "deficiencies" related to sewers, drainage, the water system and streets.

APARTMENTS, OFFICES? For Valley Road Site. Arnold J. Hirsch will ask the Township Zoning Board for permission -- a use variance -- to build a two-story structure comprising offices and apartments, at property he owns bounded by Valley, Harrison and Ewing.

Dr. Hirsch's concept is different from a previous one he presented to the Zoning Board several years ago for the site. He proposes offices on the ground level with apartments above, and in addition to the use variance, he needs a reduction in parking requirements from 24 to 18. He will appear before the board at its 7:30 meeting next Wednesday, June 25.

At its June meeting, the board unanimously gave permission to John Brenneman for construction of a four-unit housing complex on State Road near Ewing.

Request by Benedict Yedlin to build 16 townhouses in the northern section of Mt. Lucas, was rejected by 4-2, and Mr. Yedlin has announced that he will appeal the decision to Township Committee. Under the law, Mr. Yedlin needed five Zoning Board votes for approval.

ZONING BOARD UPHELD In Hospital Appeal. Township Committee has upheld the decision of its Zoning Board of Adjustment to deny a use variance to Princeton Medical Center to build a four story Medical Arts Building.

Committee heard the Medical Center's appeal of the decision last Wednesday and voted unanimously in support of the Zoning Board. Committeeman William Cherry praised the Board for having conducted "an almost faultless hearing."

John Heher, attorney for the Medical Center, told Committee that in its summary resolution, the Board of Adjustment had passed responsibility to the municipality and specifically asked for guidance from Committee as to whether to allow the extension of the Medical Arts Building on the hospital campus. Because of the scope of Medical Center activity, he said, the Board preferred such a decision be made by ordinance and not through the variance procedure.

Mr. Heher reminded Committee that the Medical Center had proved that there would be a surplus of parking and minimal traffic impact in "uncontroverted testimony" and that the convenience of a Medical Arts Building is "clearly ancillary to the broad needs of the Medical Center and thus to the needs of the patients it serves."

Seasonal Debate

Summer says
"Come on, let's go!"
Grass replies
"Come on, let's mow!"

If we don't get more rain than has fallen in almost a month (a slim inch), there won't be much grass to grow and mow.

More certain is the time of summer's arrival 1:47 a.m. Saturday. Spring will bow out with a record of having provided above-average precipitation (because March and April both set records in that respect) and temperature near normal. However, June so far has been a bit cooler than usual.

Showers Thursday and Saturday are a possibility, the Man says, but no prolonged precipitation is in sight. The thermometer will range from the mid 50s at night to around 80 for the high readings.

Hospital Fete Draws 45,000, Grosses $137,700; Skillman Woman Holds Winning Ticket on Car

A crowd estimated at 45,000 flocked to Washington Road Saturday for the Olympic Fete, the 27th annual fund raiser for the Medical Center at Princeton. For a pictorial overview, see page 12.

Under sunny skies and a benevolent humidity, Fairgoers were lured to spend their money at events ranging from an all-day auction to a decathlon of athletic contests, from a Lane of Shops to a Garden Tent, from casseroles to take home to food of all kinds to eat out of hand. The Fete field receipts amounted to an olympic-sized total of $137,724, which will benefit the capital building fund for the Medical Center.

The Fete officially began on Friday night with a gala dinner dance and a performance by the National Swedish Gymnastics Couples Team. The Swedish Ambassador was among the guests.

The raffle winner of the bright blue 1980 Ford Mustang, supplied by Nassau Conover Motor Co. was Elizabeth Wardell of Skillman. Dorothy McCarthy of Kingston held the ticket entitling her to $350 worth of beef donated by Davidson's. Winning the huge stuffed polar bear from Allen's, a white buffalo and a St. Bernard were Susan Hopkins, Karen Starita and Ann Jacobs, respectively.

Other Winners. Nineteen-year old Ringo Adamson from Glassboro completed the 10-Km run in 32:06 minutes to win first place and a gift certificate for Brooks shoes. Second and third place top male finishers were John Woodside, 23, of Princeton, in a time of 32:24 and Timothy Rawlings in 32:25, respectively.

The first female finisher was Kelly Neilan from Princeton, age 20, whose time was 37:15. She was 34th overall. Gordon Bakoulis from Princeton was second with a time of 40:50, and Jill Case was third in 41:09.

There was a mini-olympics for kids ages 5-12, and the winners of the dashes, relays and other races went home with handmade medals similar to those recieved at the Olympics. The first 140 people who competed in the eleven Decathlon Alley events and won buttons with sport cartoons were awarded t-shirts from Commodities Corporation.

The crowd enjoyed 1,700 tacos, 2,200 pieces of barbecued chicken, 650 cases of soda and 40 kegs of beer. The Oasis, also known as the Fete Garden Tent, was nearly sold out of topiary rabbits, squirrels and turtles, and so much had been collected for the Fete auction that some items were still on the auction platform at 7:30 p.m.

Mary Ann Florence and Margie Haber were co-chairmen of the Olympic Fete this year, for which the planning and preparation amount to almost a full-time joh. Planning has begun already for next year's Fete; those who would like to volunteer in any way are invited to leave their names with Mrs. Valerie Dalto at the information desk at Princeton Medical Center.

Ivan Bash, Zoning Board attorney, took issue with Mr. Heher's claim of transfer of responsibility from the Board to Committee and pointed out that there were negative impacts. The Board decided that this was a professional office building rather than hospital use and the Board wasn't the proper body to grant that kind of relief, he said.

Charles Sperling, appearing on behalf of neighboring residents, cited "deficiencies" in the record, specifically old surveys made for the parking garage and what he felt was inadmissable evidence on parking presented in a letter from Township Police Sgt. Anthony Nini who did not appear for cross examination. Mr. Sperling questioned whether the hospital would be able to obtain the necessary certificate of need from the state for a Medical Arts Building and said that seeking a use variance first from the Township was putting the cart before the horse.

Lucy McKenzie, chairman of the Zoning Board at the time of the Medical Center's application, told Committee that "evidence for the need for this building was thin, and impairment to the neighborhood was substantial."

Opinion Supported. Township Committee agreed with her. George Adriance said both sides had made a good case, which had been decided on its merits. He questioned whether the Medical Arts Building plan would benefit doctors more than the hospital and pointed out there is no way of making sure that the medical specialties the Hospital seeks to attract will in fact decide to move in.

Committeeman David Blair lamented over the unfortunate conflict that exists between a neighborhood and a hospital, in which the neighborhood has to sacrifice "amiable living" and the hospital some of its ideals. But he too, felt that the Zoning Board decision was reasonably consistent with the testimony heard.

$300 IS STOLEN

From Trinity Church Office. A bank bag containing $300 and an unknown amount of checks was stolen during the weekend from a file cabinet in the Trinity Counseling Service Office in Trinity Church.

Police report that entry was gained through a corner window between 4 Friday afternoon and 8:30 Monday morning. Once inside, the intruder forced open the file cabinet.

Assorted tools, a propane torch and a battery charger with a combined value of $109 were stolen last week from the cellar of an Alexander Street residence.

Police said that the unlocked cellar was entered sometime between June 1-15. No attempt was made to enter the main part of the house.

WINDSHIELD SHATTERED

By "Crazy People." "We've got some crazy people out there," said Capt. Theodore Lewis this week, in preface to his report of an act of vandalism on Washington Road.

A Stanton resident was driving on Prospect near the Woodrow Wilson School late Saturday evening when another car approached from the opposite direction. Someone in the car threw balloons, which were tied together and filled with water, at the victim's car. Attached to the balloons, Capt. Lewis said, were heavy metal nuts and bolts. The impact smashed the victim's windshield.

In the Township, a Halsey Street resident told police that he had parked his car in front of his house at approximately 8 p.m. Saturday and when he returned at 1:15 a.m. he discovered that the windshield of his small foreign car had been struck and shattered by an object.

A resident of Yonkers, N.Y., had the rear wiper blade broken and rear license plate stolen from his car while it was parked Saturday night from 9:30 to 10:30 in a Prospect Avenue driveway. He told police that he was attending a party. The stolen N.Y. plate is 135-JUY.

Hospital's Personnel Policies Draw Protests Of 7 Clergymen through 'A Sense of Ministry'

"A sense of ministry took us to the hospital – we need, want and are compelled to be there to speak to an unjust situation," said Princeton Methodist pastor Jack Johnson this week, regarding a meeting last Friday of seven Princeton ministers with Medical Center administration and trustee representatives concerning security guards.

The meeting was held in the face of pressure by Center administrators who called church members, according to the Rev. Mr. Johnson, and asked them to tell their pastors to back away because the security guard question "was none of our business."

"I don't believe we made any headway with the Center," Mr. Johnson added.

In a June 6 letter, nine Princeton clergy expressed "our deep concern" over the security guard matter. The guards voted last fall to form a union – the Center's first. The Center has contested the election. It has also reportedly refused the guards a cost-of-living raise extended to others on the staff, and denied them participation in an insurance program.

Individual employees have filed charges against the Center with the National Labor Relations Board, or filed through the Center's own grievance channels. It was learned this week that an adjunctive therapist at Princeton House, a division of the Center, filed a grievance under Center procedures and was reportedly denied access to the grievance mechanism.

A "Kangaroo Court." This week also, Frank Spada, a Princeton Theological Seminary graduate who formerly worked as a guard, charges in a letter to the clergy that Center grievance procedures are a "kangaroo court," and that employees live in fear of losing their jobs if they express any dissatisfaction with the hospital.

Clergy who went to the hospital meeting, besides Mr. Johnson, were Wallace Alston and Blan Aldridge (Nassau Presbyterian); John Crocker (Trinity); Leon Gipson (Mt. Pisgah A.M.E.); Daniel Migliore (Seminary) and Rabbi Melvin Glatt (Jewish Center). Signers of the letter also included the Rev. Margot Pickett and the Rev. Mark Pickett, Christ Congregation.

Acknowledging Center trustees' right of appeal to the courts, the clergy said they believed the process raised "disturbing questions which affect our entire community," and declared that "a protracted adversary relationship between the hospital and its personnel" could have a negative effect on Princeton.

They also referred to the cost of litigation, pointing out to the Center that "our community has been most generous in its support of its hospital."

Churches Not Involved. "We were speaking only for ourselves, and not for our churches or the security guards," the Rev. Mr. Johnson emphasized after the meeting, "although at least two of us – myself and Blan Aldridge – feel ready to speak for the guards."

Hospital spokesmen cited their right to go the judicial route, Mr. Johnson reported. "We protested the way they're treating employees, especially the guards, during the judicial process, but we couldn't seem to move them. They said they were concerned about our next step, and asked us to be responsible for our actions.

"As for the security guards' problems not being our business, our job description in the Old and New Testaments covers just about everything."

The Rev. Mr. Spada's letter declares that a nurse told him she had been one of five nurses planning to organize a union. She went on vacation, she told him, and when she returned, the other four nurses had been fired. He wrote that, in his belief, the Center uses the "incident report" – report of non-perfromance on the job – as a way of dismissing security guards or other employees who "would like to form a union to give members of the hospital staff the protection they do not have at the present time."

Grievance committee hearings, he continued, "are a kangaroo court; there is no right or wrong, only what the hospital desires and wishes to protect."

LET'S TALK ABOUT

DUTCH ELM DISEASE: WHAT TO WATCH FOR

with Sam deTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Once again this summer there are large numbers of Elms in the area threatened with Dutch Elm disease WOODWINDS urges those home owners with one or more Elms to monitor the condition of these valuable trees carefully, before it is too late to take preventive measure to save the tree.

If you didn't spray for Bark Beetle prior to bud break, the beetle may have already done irreparable damage, either by injecting a toxin into the sap stream, or by cutting off the water supply of the tree by feeding at twig crotches and destroying tissue.

Watch carefully, then, for signs of wilting Some Elms are killed outright in a single season, depending on the vigor of the tree before infection. The essential steps in treating Elms are as follows:

1 Prune, water well, and feed.

2. Spray now to control defoliation by Elm Leaf Beetle (a different insect entirely from Elm Bark Beetle), scale insects and mites

3 Keep the tree healthy and vigorous with a regular feeding program;

4 Cut down immediately and destroy any dead Elms, or diseased portions of otherwise healthy trees; the Bark Beetle will spread from diseased portions very quickly.

WOODWINDS stresses the importance of keeping Elms, and indeed all trees, at the peak of health and vigor ... a healthy tree can repel its attackers and retain its beauty for many, many years to come.

WOODWINDS is happy to answer questions concerning any of your valuable trees and shrubs – please call us at 924-

JUVENILE IS CHARGED

After Moped Chase. It seemed an uneven contest–a moped versus a police patrol car–but a 16-year old North Tulane Street juvenile gave police a good chase before being apprehended.

The youth, later released to his father, has been charged with reckless driving, eluding a police officer, operating an uninsured vehicle and being an unlicensed driver. Police have impounded his moped, pending proof of ownership.

When Ptl. Robert Buchanan responded to an 11 p.m. call Friday, reporting mopeds driving across lawns in the Edgerstoune area, he observed two on Russell Road.

When he attempted to stop one for having no rail light, the operator fled along Russell Road, turning onto Hun Road. The suspect then drove into a residence on Hun Road, across the lawn and attempted to hide.

As Ptl. Buchanan approached, he again sped off, weaving back and forth on Hun to try to prevent the pursuing patrol car from passing him. At the intersection of Hun and Edgerstoune, the juvenile made a U-turn and was apprehended by office Buchanan, who had left his patrol car.

The suspect was then taken to police headquarters for processing. The other moped driver escaped, police said.

Board's Treatment of Report on Black Students Brings Charge of Delay in Its Implementation

Angered that a report on the Lotz report was not on the formal agenda, Civil Rights Commission chairman Joan Hill last week scolded the school board and administration for "trying to pass the buck" regarding implementation of the report. Ruth Lotz, middle school guidance counsellor, is the author of a study on black students in remedial classes.

Ms. Hill told the board the results of a town meeting of the black community on June 5, when parents and students talked about their needs. A check-list of 17 items has been presented to Superintendent Paul Houston, Ms. Hill said.

Black parents urged school administrators to check the records of black nursery school students, suggesting that children labeled as "problems" in kindergarten might simply be bored because they had already covered the material in nursery school.

Parents asked for evaluation of teacher attitudes toward second and third-graders, and asked for straight-forward academic evaluation of their children, rather than the "she's-so-cute!" which they said was characteristic of many parent-teacher conferences. They also asked for evening conferences for working parents.

Requests from Students. Students at the "town meeting" said they wanted stronger involvement by their own parents, and stronger discipline at Princeton High School, including abandonment of the open campus and a strict check on truancy with a report to parents on students who cut class.

Parents and students suggested that high school students could help middle-school students, and middle-school students could help elementary students, in tutoring and peer-group counselling. The town meeting audience also advised black parents to attend more school board and Parent-Teacher Organization meetings.

Ms. Hill says that when the Lotz report was presented to the Equal Opportunities Committee of the school district–to which she belongs–various departments of the school system "passed the buck" on suggestions for implementing the report.

"No one wanted to do anything, so I took it to the Civil Rights Commission," Ms. Hill says. "The EEO committee said it wanted to work with the school board, bu. so far we've had no response."

The Lotz report is on the agenda–for certain, this time–of the board's June 23 business meeting. Ms. Hill said Dr. Houston apologized to her for presenting the report as part of his own, and not as a regular agenda item.

TWO SERIOUSLY HURT

Pedestrian, Motorcyclist. A 33-year old pedestrian was seriously injured last week when he was struck by a motorcycle as he was crossing Alexander Street near Andy's Tavern. The cyclist was also seriously injured.

Police identified the pedestrian as George J. Cimore, 41 Betts Avenue, Trenton. He sustained severe head injuries, internal injuries and injury to his body, leg and hip. The cyclist, Gregory T. Linteris, 22, 19 University Place, sustained head and body injuries. Both were admitted to Princeton Medical Center in critical condition.

Six days after the accident occurred, police had not yet spoken to either victim, Sgt. Anthony Nini, the Township Traffic Officer, reported. "It will be a long time before we get to talk to them," he added.

"As far as we can determine, Sgt. Nini continued, "no speeding was involved." He said that Mr. Cimore had just made a purchase at Andy's and had started to cross Alexander. He was six feet into the southbound lane when he was struck by Mr. Linteris.

Mr. Linteris had been traveling in the north bound lane, police said, but had pulled into the south lane to pass a car. "It appears they just did not see each other for that split second," Sgt. Nini commented.

Ptl. Peter Savalli is conducting the investigation. He noted in his report that lighting in the area is low. No charges have been made, pending the completion of his investigation.

TWO CARS DAMAGED

By Fire. The engines of two cars were damaged last week by fire in the Township.

Dr. William J. Pet[illegible] 53 Battle Road, had [illegible]ost extinguished a fire unde[illegible]he hood of his station wagon, parked in his driv[illegible]way Sunday afternoon, when Ptl. Robert Nielsen arrived to help finish the job. Police said the fire appeared to have started near the base of the carburetor from a possible gas leak. Damage was confined to the engine compartment.

The engine of a car owned by Bertha Toussaint, 37 Redding Circle, caught fire Saturday afternoon in front of 575 Ewing Street.

Ptl. David Cromwell attempted to put out the blaze with a powder and water extinguisher from his patrol car but needed help from a fire truck that was dispatched to the scene. The car had to be towed to a service station.

The same day at 6:33 p.m., Ptl. Nielsen and Ptl. Jack Petrone Jr. responded to a report of a small field fire behind the Princeton Shopping Center. They and firemen from Engine company No. 1 put out the blaze. About 10 square yards of field were blackened.

Two pieces of fire apparatus and about a dozen firemen responded to a "smoke condition" at Tenacre off the Old Great Road last week.

Police said that the smoke was caused by a malfunctioning oil burner in an employees' residence hall. There was no damage and no fire equipment was used.

CAUGHT INSIDE PHS

Youth Charged. A 15-year old Pennsylvania juvenile has been charged with breaking and entering and theft, after he was apprehended Sunday inside Princeton High School rifling students' lockers. He has been released to his grandmother, who lives in Princeton.

The youth entered the school, police said, through the bell tower by climbing a ladder against the tower. He had been observed earlier by a teacher inside, checking windows and doors as if trying to get inside. A patrol car responded to a call from the teacher and police checked the building but found no signs of the suspect. A second call later reported the youth inside the school.

A 16-year old Township youth has been charged by Det. James Agins with the theft of a cylinder head from a moped.

Police said that the head had been stolen the previous day from a student's moped, which had been parked on the high school grounds near the construction area between noon and 4 p.m.

Another Township juvenile has been charged with the theft of a 10-speed bicycle.

At 4:27 Sunday afternoon, a juvenile told police that he had seen his stolen bicycle in front of 80 Nassau Street. Police

ROAD WORK PLANNED

For Mercer County. More than $1.3 million in bridge and road repairs is about to get under way in Mercer County, County Executive Bill Mathesius has announced.

Mr. Mathesius said the County plans to reconstruct portions of Princeton Junction-Cranbury Road in West Windsor Township and Woodsville-Lambertville Road (Route 518) in Hopewell Township.

Route 518 will be reconstructed from Marshall's Corner-Woodsville Road to Harbourton-Rocktown Road, a distance of about 6,200 feet. G.W. Wright, Jr., Inc. of Brick Town will do the work for $374,887.50.

Princeton Junction-Cranbury Road will be rebuilt from Princeton-Hightstown Road to Bridge 762.1, a distance of about 2,100 feet. This project will be done by Castoro and Co. of Hopewell for $109,917.01.

METER THEFT ABORTED

With Arrest. The attempted theft of a parking meter in a Princeton Medical Center lot was aborted last week with the arrest of an 18-year old Ringoes youth.

Joseph R. Gordon has been charged by police with malicious mischief. He has been released in his own recognizance, pending his appearance in court July 17. Two companions, an 18-year old from Ringoes and a 19-year old from Flemington were not charged.

Ptl. Howard Sweeney had seen two suspects near the Medical Group lot behind Corner House while on routine patrol around 10 p.m. Friday. They told him they were waiting for a friend when a visitor emerged from the hospital and told the officer that another suspect was hiding behind some hedges and that he was trying to break into a parking meter in the hospital yard.

In checking, Ptl. Sweeney found that the concrete base around a meter had been cracked and the meter almost uprooted.

Nelson Black of Jackson, Miss., was arrested in Trenton last week and charged with the burglary and theft on May 24 of a 35mm camera from Brown Hall on the Princeton Seminary campus.

Black had sold the camera to a Princeton merchant who became suspicious and notified police. He has been released on $150 bail.

GRADUATION HELD

At Chapin School. Peter Putnam, Princeton resident and author, was the speaker at the Chapin School graduation exercises. Mr. Putnam is a past president of the board of trustees of Chapin and currently serves as an honorary member.

Road Closed for a Month

The Princeton Junction - Cranbury Road was closed to traffic Monday for a period of 30 days.

Robert A. Carmignani of Mercer County Public Works said the artery will be reconstructed between Princeton - Hightstown Road and the northerly end of Grovers Mill Road. Traffic from Princeton - Hightstown Road will be detoured through Grovers Mill Road. Princeton Junction - Cranbury Road will be open to local traffic and emergency vehicles only and appropriate detour signs will be installed.

Week's Theft List: Bowling Ball, Stereos, Cameras, TVs, Bicyles—and a $50,000 Ring

A large sapphire ring was apparently stolen last Wednesday between 11:30 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. from the top of a bureau in a student's unlocked room in 1903 Hall on the Princeton University campus.

According to police, the ring, surrounded by 21 smaller sapphires, which in turn were surrounded by 99 small diamonds on a silver band, had been appraised for $50,000 in 1977. It was in a square, brown leather Tiffany box.

Police said that the owner, a resident of South Carolina, was packing, getting to ready to leave the campus, when she noticed the box missing. The ring was an heirloom gift from her mother, who had given it to her for graduation, police said.

Two IBM Selectric typewriters, valued at $1,200 each, were stolen Saturday from the Environmental Studies office in the Engineering Quadrangle. Police said the typewriters had been bolted to their desks. The theft took place between 2 a.m. and 1 p.m.

There were three wallet thefts in the Borough. An Aberdeen resident left his wallet containing $500 on the front seat of his locked car, which was parked Thursday afternoon on Quarry Street.

Less than an hour later, a call came from the Quaker Bridge Mall, reporting finding the wallet there – minus the money – in a trash can. Police said there was no sign of forced entry into the car.

A student in Little Hall on the university campus reported that his wallet containing $50 was taken last week from a window sill where he had left it while he was in an attic getting boxes to pack. When he returned to his room, he found someone inside, who asked for a box and left.

A Township resident lost $22 and credit cards when her wallet was removed from her pocketbook between 4:50 and 5:10 Monday afternoon in an office at 21 Prospect Avenue. The wallet was valued at $10.

Parked Cars Looted. Three parked cars in the Township were looted last week.

An automatic cassette stereo with AM-FM tuner, two speakers and an AM radio, were removed from a car parked in the lot at Redding Circle. Total value: $560.

A tire iron found on the front seat by police was apparently used to shatter a left rear window. The box containing the radio -- the original equipment for the car -- was found later in the lot by a maintenance man. The car was parked across from the apartment of the owner, police said.

A bowling ball and bag, CB radio and tool box with a combined value of $270 were stolen from a car parked last week in the Westminster Choir College lot. Entry was by way of a vent window. The victim is a Somerville resident.

On Friday, a $125 AM-FM cassette radio was removed from the dashboard of the car of a Philadelphia resident. It was also parked in the Choir College lot.

Another Stuart County Day School sign was stolen. a 4-by-6 foot sign, valued at $95, was taken overnight from its location at the corner of the Great Road and Stuart Road. A school official told police that he believes that it might have been taken by students celebrating the end of school.

Back in the Borough, a $250 33mm camera was stolen from an office in Dial Lodge, 26 Prospect Street, and a meter head was twisted off from its stand on Charlton Street. It was discovered missing on Monday.

In a late report police received last week, a 19-inch television set was stolen in May from a storage bin at the North Stanworth apartments.

There were four more bicycle thefts -- all in the Borough. An unlocked 10-speed model valued at $175 was stolen Monday between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. from the front yard of an Alexander Street home, and a 10-speed, orange bike was taken Sunday from the caddy shop at Springdale Golf Club.

A Nassau Street resident reported the theft of a $200, 12-speed bike from the area of Spelman Hall between 8 Friday morning and 8:20 the following night, and a 10-speed model, chained to a bench at the Princeton High School grounds, was taken earlier in the week. It is valued at $120.

WIN GOLD KEYS

At Princeton High. Gold Key insignias were presented last week to 42 seniors and 15 juniors who are students at Princeton High School. The award is given for character, leadership and service to the school, and is presented to no more than ten percent of the senior class, and no more than five percent of the junior class.

Ralph Schoenstein, Princeton author and humorist, gave the address at the school's annual Gold Key Assembly. Gold Keys were presented by seniors who had won the award last year as juniors: Mark Adams, Ron Celestin, Margaret Clark, Bruce Cobb, Georgie Gould, Jeanette LaBar, Karen Lam, Bill Sapoch, Eleanor Ufford, Claire Ullman and Karen Zucchino.

Juniors who won the award are Risa Browder, Donald Craig, Peter Dolotta, Virginia Dunham, Julia Ellis, Ellen Freeberg, Carrie Lesh, Paul Miles, Susan Mooney, Elizabeth Reed, Jonathan Roemer, Peter Sharpless, Adam Spiegel, John Sullivan and Jennifer Van Dyck.

Seniors are Robert Almgren, Tatiana Christides, Scott Clark, Roger Dinella, Sarah Glinka, Denise Hudson, Leroy Hunninghake, Nina Jahn, Ava Johnson, John Kellogg, Darnley Kirton, Daniel Klotz.

Also Gene Lewin, Lance Liverman, Maureen McCloskey, Monique Muri, Lisa Parella, Nancy Pesce, Kelly Robinson, Kevin Robinson, Samantha Sparks, Karen Stein, Jonathan Tenney, John Tevebaugh, Anna Marie Toto and Theodore Vial.

FLYING EVENT PLANNED

At County Airport. The eighth annual "Garden State 300" cross country proficiency flying event will be held on Saturday from the Mercer County Airport in Ewing Township. The first aircraft will take off at 10.

The "300" is not a race, but a 300-mile proficiency event in which the participants precompute their flights, emphasizing winds, lapsed time and fuel consumption. The route then is flown to determine how closely the computations can be matched through the participants' flying skills.

The competition is sponsored by the Garden State Chapter Ninety-Nines, Inc., an all-women's flying organization that lists Amelia Earhart among its founders.

Over 30 aircraft, piloted by both men and women and ranging from the Beech Bonanza to the Cessna C-152, will fly into Maryland and Pennsylvania before returning to Mercer County Airport. All participants should complete the route by 1:30.

Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded. The Department of Transportation will donate the eighth place trophy in recognition of the eighth anniversary of the "Garden State 300." The rain date is Sunday.

NASSAU STREET ENTREPRENEURS: Sales of fresh-picked garden peas at 90 cents a pound were "excellent" according to 11-year old Allison Judd of Queenston Place, one of a group of four young entrepreneurs who set up their stand last week on Nassau near Queenston. Business partners from left are Damon Judd, 4; Michael Glock, 8; and Thomas Reid, 5. Allison, a student at Stuart School, picks the peas with her mother at Grover Farm in Dutch Neck, pays for her share, and then sells them at a profit. She and her brother, Damon, live on Queenston Place; Thomas resides on Riverside Drive, while Michael is a resident of Fairfax, Va., visiting Thomas. "Why," Thomas wanted to know, as TOWN TOPICS' photographer was preparing to leave, "didn't you buy any peas?" He has a great future.

OPEN HOUSE SUNDAY

At Solar Homes. A Solar Open House at five Princeton area residences will take place Sunday from 1 to 5. The open house is the culminating event of the first national conference on energy retrofit being held at Princeton University Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The five homeowners have incorporated solar features in existing buildings to help heat them.

The Battle house, a 100-year-old dwelling in the Borough, has an added rooftop light scoop which casts sunlight on a masonry wall and a south facing greenhouse, both of which trap the sun's energy. The Peck house in Penns Neck, a 1960 ranch, uses circulating curtains and tinted shades to control the absorption of heat in the building. Even the original stone foundations of the barn were utilized as a heat retaining masonry mass.

In Lawrenceville, a house from 1800 has incorporated solar heat with the addition of a greenhouse on its south side. The greenhouse holds solar heat in its masonry floor and a low water-wall composed of conventional oil drums, and then allows the heat to flow to adjoining rooms.

The Kelbaugh house on Pine Street, built five years ago as a passive solar building, has an added thermo siphoning system within its greenhouse for heating hot water without fans or pumps. In converting a 19th century Newtown, Pa. barn into a home, the Jones family used water-filled oil drums and Kalwall tubes, all five houses are examples of the use of simple, available, modern energy technology in existing buildings, a procedure known as solar retrofitting. Registration for the Solar Open House is $6 and will take place Thursday, Friday and Saturday from noon to 2 at Alexander Hall. Registration by mail may be made by writing to Solar Open House, 11 Glenview Drive, Princeton.

Quarry Park Dedication Party on Saturday Makes an Offer: Buy a Tree and Eat for Free

How can you beat a party which not only features a few choice remarks by the mayor, chicken barbecue, a flea market and the chance to buy a tree, but also the formal dedication of Princeton's newest park?

It's the Quarry Park dedication and picnic this Saturday from 3 to 7 (rain date Sunday). Quarry Park is between the end of Spruce Street and the Lloyd Terrace apartments on Harrison. It can be reached by turning east on Spruce, off Linden Lane.

The barbecue costs $2.75 for adults and $1.50 for children, but if you buy a tree to be planted in the park, you get a free meal, including salads and desserts. Prices start at $12 for a Norway spruce to $26 for a Canadian hemlock, and landscape planners will be on hand to help you choose tree and site. Actual planting will be done later by the Borough.

On Saturday, Mrs. Denyse Reid will present to the Borough a check for $1,500 in memory of the Reids' daughter, Anne, who lost her life in an automobile accident several years ago. The money will be used for additional planting.

Quarry Park is a four-acre site. Once a quarry, then an unsightly dump, it is now a park with paths, picnic tables, grills, benches and playground equipment. The Borough bought the land with help from New Jersey's Green Acres program.

The Quarry Park Association holds annual picnics as a way to raise money for providing the park with amenities. The Association, consisting of neighbors on Linden, Spruce, Hamilton and nearby streets, was instrumental in the drive to save the land for a park.

the mall. They include pottery, eggery, miniatures, stained glass, macrame, woodworking, handweaving, quilting, bread dough art, calligraphy, herbs, pierced and cut lampshades, pillows, embroidery, plus many more as well.

In addition, area groups and businesses will present displays of beekeeping, health foods, gymnastics, ballet, and martial arts. Lunch will be available at the Centers' several eating places, and there is plenty of free parking.

INCENTIVES TO READING

At Rocky Hill Library. "Book Trek" is the theme for the Summer Reading Club at the Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill which will run from June 19-August 22. The Dairy Inn, Route 518, Blawenburg, has donated prizes this year. Children who read 5-9 books will get a sundae; 10-14 books get a banana boat, 15-19 books get a brownie delight; 20 or more books get a hamburger deluxe, drink and an ice cream sundae.

Children in the club will have a chance to guess the location of the Lost Planet on the space charts; and gift certificates have been donated from Records Etc., Montgomery Shopping Center and from C&M Toy Store, Village Shopper for the winners of this contest. The gift certificates and prizes will be awarded at the Reading Club Party on August 25.

To join the Book Trek, children must be able to read on their own and turn in book reports for each book read. This program is free and open to the public. For further information call the library at 924-7073.

DRIVE UNDER WAY

For EMI Project. A concerted drive to encourage all Princeton senior citizens and disabled persons to participate in the EMI (Emergency Medical Information) project is underway. Inserts are being mailed in the June tax bills to every Princeton homeowner, in the hopes of reaching those not yet covered by the program.

The EMI Project was initiated last year by Borough and Township Police Departments, under the leadership of Sgt. Thomas Michaud, Borough Police. The program is designed to provide a uniform way of keeping vital medical data handy and available to emergency personnel in time of crisis.

Data, such as doctor's name and phone number, medications now being taken (or those to be avoided), emergency person to contact, are filled out on a card, which is then stuffed into a plastic vial, which is stored in the refrigerator. An EMI decal is placed on the refrigerator door to indicate that medical data is available inside.

In case of emergency, police or rescue personnel could refer quickly to the data, taking it along to the hospital emergency room, if a trip were required. Vials can be obtained at both police departments, Borough and Township welfare departments, Princeton Senior Resource Center, Princeton Public Library, and Mercer County Outreach at the Paul Robeson Center.

ACTIVITIES LISTED

For Children At Library. Summer programs for children at the Princeton Public Library begin on Wednesday, June 25, at 3:30 with an "Environment Building Workshop" for children ages 8-12. Registration, limited to 25, is on a first-come first-served basis.

Stamp buffs and beginners ages 6-12 will have a chance to meet fellow collectors for trading and sharing on Thursday, June 26, at 3:30 in the Library's Meeting Room. No registration is required.

Films for ages 6 and up will be offered on alternate Wednesdays beginning July 2 at 3:30. No tickets are required.

On Tuesday, July 8, at 2 the first in a series of three story hours for children ages 3½-5 will take place. Each half-hour session will include readings and a filmstrip. Parents may register their children in the children's room starting Monday, June 23.

NEW BRIDAL SERVICE

At Princeton Gourmet. Vivian M. Hall, a professional bridal consultant and table-setting adviser with more than 15 years experience, has joined the staff at The Princeton Gourmet. Mrs. Hall can help prospective brides select china, crystal, linens and flatware, and enter their preferences in the shop's Bridal Registry to assist friends and relatives in the purchase of wedding and shower gifts.

The shop will hand-deliver wedding gifts free of charge in the Princeton area, and will gift-wrap presents for every occasion and ship them anywhere in the world.

TABLE TALK is the specialty of Vivian M. Hall, professional bridal consultant for the Princeton Gourmet. Mrs. Hall can help prospective brides select china, crystal, linens and accessories for formal or informal table settings. Preferences may be entered in the shop's Bridal Registry to assist in the purchase of wedding or shower gifts most pleasing to the bride.

Table Appointments. The Princeton Gourmet is in a charming 18th century house, a gracious setting for distinctive gifts for the home. The wide hallway is a gallery exhibiting the shop's collection of dinnerware – white or yellow Quimper pottery in delightful provincial designs, from France; freezer-to-oven-to-table stoneware in a choice of contemporary colors and shapes, by Arabia of Finland; and traditional Faience porcelains in delicate floral patterns, by Longchamps.

Stainless steel flatware by Georgian House and Lauffer is presented in a variety of patterns to complete a beautifully appointed table.

Al fresco dining can be accomplished with ease and style using the Gourmet's assemblage of picnic provisions. Covered baskets made from oak splints include a two-tiered pie basket and a deep French-style picnic basket that opens at either end; canvas picnic totes in three sizes include a small tote for wine, complete with corkscrew.

Unbreakable patio-picnic sets – plate, bowl and mug – are offered in decorator colors of hot pink, yellow, orange, green, or white; faceted plastic tumblers -- clear, cobalt blue, or grass green – are dishwasher safe; 8 for $10.

Stemware and Servers. A spacious corner room displays a wide selection of gifts for every occasion which reflect the superb taste of Don Warnock, owner. Oriental porcelains and lacquered trays are decorative accents and attractive serving pieces.

Orrefors crystal stemware and pitchers, and glasses decorated with seashells or sand dollars, shown with matching trays, add sparkle to summer tables. A hand-crafted copper fountain with leaf-like tiers creates a tranquil sound for porch, patio or indoor water garden.

Porcelain dinnerware from Villeroy and Boch, called "Naif," displays six whimsical French scenes, such as farmland, a cozy hearthside or Noah's Ark.

Beautifully grained Haitian Obgeechi wood has been handcrafted into salad bowls, serving trays and cheese boards, ranging in price from $6.50 to $65. Nambe flameproof cooking and serving ware, with the appearance of polished pewter, retains heat or cold for three hours or more.

Small indoor-outdoor tables in green wrought iron with colorful tile tops are $19.50-$46.50; white wrought iron tables with glass tops are $49.50 for a nest of three.

Buffet-sized pottery serving accessories, made in Italy, include an antipasto platter, salad bowl and individual salad plates, hand-painted with sunny yellow flowers. Buffet-sized serving utensils in English silverplate are a slotted spoon, plain spoon and fork.

SEPARATES FOR SUMMER

Designed by Robert Varga. Colorful separates were the outstanding feature in the collection of summer fashions designed by Robert Varga and presented at a fashion show in his store's salon.

This talented young designer has created easy-to-wear fashions, beautiful in their simplicity, and added the excitement of color in unusual combinations. Linen, pique, voile, seersucker, gauze, silk, and lace contribute a natural elegance and interesting contrasts in texture.

Seersucker and polished cotton separates in brilliant tropical colors and voile separates in delicious pastels were shown for daytime and evening wear. Shorts, tops and dresses in linen or cotton gauze borrowed their colors from sea and sand and were hand-painted with seascapes and shells by artist, Sue Swartz.

Silk polka-dotted separates in black and bright colors appeared in sophisticated street wear and exquisite laces over mauve-toned linings were enchanting for evening.

Robert Varga created sleek heads for his models with wrapped and braided hair-styles and ornamented them with silk flowers, ribbons or lace. Summer faces were created by Anne Mattia with Rae Cosmetics from the store's new cosmetic bar, and shoes and sandals were loaned by the store's shoe boutique. Giant tissue paper flowers in vivid colors on tall wrapped stalks, provided festive decorations.

Dotted Silks. Pink silk with black dots was styled as a blouse with tied wrap front and shown with a solid pink A-line skirt.

Dotted silk blouses with round necks and short puffed sleeves were gray with chartreuse dots, shown with a gray bias-cut skirt, and green with black dots, paired with a slim black silk skirt. Dotted silk skirts in the same color combinations were worn with black tops and white jackets in waffle pique or white silk with painted designs.

Romantic Voiles. Voile separates in delectable pastels were romantic and charming. A long lilac skirt with hemline ruffle and peach top with off-the-shoulder ruffle, were worn with a turquoise belt and lemon yellow stole; a lemon yellow street length skirt was combined with a mauve camisole top, embroidered belt and cropped light blue jacket.

Black voile created drama in a dress with round neck, puffed short sleeves and full skirt and a bare-top dress with matching stole bordered with orange embroidery.

Casual Linens. Separates and dresses for casual wear included a natural linen wrap skirt with a hand-painted beach scene and pale turquoise linen top with slender straps. Linen shorts were modeled in a walking length with a sheer gauze jacket, and short sborts in natural linen were combined with a pale turquoise halter.

A body-skimming dress in pale turquoise cotton gauze, displayed a hand-painted design of pink dogwood; a pale green cotton gauze dress was designed with fullness gathered to a yoke hand-painted with a seasbell design.

Raincoats and Separates. Cire raincoats in brilliant colors with puffed shoulders and tied neck bows were shown with equally brilliant separates in tri-color combinations.

An orange raincoat was shown with a black polished cotton skirt, coral seersucker blouse and orange cummerbund. A red raincoat was shown with a yellow bias-cut seesucker skirt, orange blouse and green cummerbund, and a blue raincoat was shown with a chartreuse blouse, full orange skirt and magenta cummerbund.

Evening Elegance. Gorgeous ecru laces in several patterns were selected for beguiling evening separates. A slender skirt with a hemline ruffle was paired with a lace top showing a deep off-the-shoulder ruffle, and pale pink cummerbund.

Lace in a beautiful rose pattern was styled as a long coat with ruffled edge and wrists, and worn over a slim lace skirt with mauve lining and a top with deep neckline ruffle. A short two-piece dress had a full skirt with scalloped lace border and a fitted top with high ruffled neck and long sleeves with ruffled wrists.

A Summer Wedding. A charming summer bride appeared in a sheer, blush rose voile dress with a hemline ruffle, long sleeves ruffled at the wrist and a ruffle around the neckline and deep V back.

A streamer of voile roses added to the back interest and lace was intertwined with the bride's upswept hair. The bride's attendant wore a pink silk organza skirt, green strapless draped top and a lace neck ruff.

Summer Shoes. Beautiful shoes for summer at Varga's "A Shoe Boutique" include a d'Orsay cut shoe with a decorative strap design and the new cone heel, in white or lilac, a silk multi-color striped pump, and an ankle-strap sandal with woven multi-color straps.

A velvety suede shoe with wedge heel and petaled straps in raspberry and beige, a flat brown beach sandal with ankle strap, and Charles Jourdan's Chanel-style sling back with gold or wine tip are also featured in this fashionable collection.

Robert Varga is 2564 Route No. 1 at Hopatcong Drive, Trenton. Store hours are 10-6 Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, 10-9 Thursday and Friday and 10-5 Saturday.

Rest of I-95 Favored.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

It is most unfortunate that Interstate I-95 is not being continued north as originally programmed. This is a detriment to our community. A few people in Hopewell Township are preventing many potential visitors to our area which would be very beneficial to our hostelaries, merchants, and cultural activities; not to mention the unemployment situation in the construction industry at the present time.

Within my memory local merchants were up in arms about the construction of what is now U.S. 1 south of Princeton. The old Lincoln Highway was Nassau Street in those days, and it was feared our community would lose a tremendous amount of business as a result of the new "super highway." However, the end result was much more business for the merchants, hotels, theaters, etc. because of the increase in nearby traffic, and the national and international attraction of Princeton, both historically and culturally.

The same thing would happen again by continuing I-95 to the north. It would be a very simple matter for tourists from all over the country, and from abroad, to travel a few miles south from the intersection of Route 206. It would be easy to read on a road map. Whereas, the hassle for a stranger to try to get to Princeton from the present I-95 endings by way of U.S. 1, or any other way, is too much of a problem. What with all the turns, traffic lights, and traffic it is just not worth the bother.

We talk about expending huge sums of money for more construction in our down town area in order to develop more business, why not let the Federal government go ahead with I-95 and reap the benefits.

On numerous occasions I have observed heavy traffic, especially from large trucks, and commuters from the Lawrence Township area, traveling through Princeton to connect with 206 North, I-295 and I-95 South. This type of traffic brings very little business to Princeton, and would be largely eliminated if I-95 is continued north.

About Stray Animals.
To the Editor of Town Topics.

Regarding last week's annual publication of Mrs. Graves' S.A.V.E., I think her note was stating just how much she really cares, which is next to nothing.

If she is not "authorized to accept strays, injured or privately owned," animals, who is she accepting? The Rockefellers or Kennedys, the ones we can all tell really need help! What about the little cats or dogs that get hit by a car? They must be animal non grata.

Her heading is S.A.V.E. and Rescue League. Who are we rescuing, Mrs. Graves? Certainly not the ones who need you!

Note: We are instructed to call the police or dog officer, who nine out of ten times turn them over to someone who destroys them.

VANESSA LANES
17 Edwards Place

Editor's Note: The reference is to a statement in S.A.V.E.'s classified ad (not an "annual publication") stating that S.A.V.E. is "not authorized to accept stray, injured or privately owned animals at our shelter."

According to Roger Breese, Animal Control Officer for Princeton Borough and Township. S.A.V.E. has no authorization under New Jersey state law to accept animals. Under the law, that is the responsibility of the municipality.

Borough and Township police and Mr. Breese use the S.A.V.E. shelter as a "pound," and take animals there. The animals are under municipal jurisdiction for seven days, again in accordance with the law. After seven days, they pass to S.A.V.E.'s jurisdiction, and at that point, Mrs. Graves attempts to find homes for them, chiefly through Town Topics.

All injured animals are taken by police to the Princeton Animal Hospital. S.A.V.E. has no hospital facilities. Mr. Breese and Mrs. Graves emphasize that no animals are destroyed. Mrs. Graves points out that vicious animals are destroyed, but first they are held for the seven-day period like all the rest. The decision to destroy is made by S.A.V.E.'s consulting veterinarian, and carried out at the Princeton Animal Hospital.

NORTH CHINA COMES TO PRINCETON: Frances and Theresa Sung stand outside their North China Restaurant which has opened at 36 Witherspoon Street, while inside head chef Ken Nen-Li prepares one of the many Mandarin Szchuan dishes. Story this page.

New North China Restaurant on Witherspoon St. Offers Choice of Mandarin or Szchuan Cuisine

If one of the secrets of a good restaurant is a large, efficient, well-equipped kitchen, then the North China Restaurant which opened April 25 at 28 Witherspoon Street will be a success.

With its stainless steel walls and red tile floor, the North China kitchen, including its plumbing and electrical systems, was designed by its owner, Frances Sung. He has the technical background and restaurant experience to know what he wanted.

A native of Szchuan province in China, Mr. Sung was for ten years a naval officer in Taiwan before coming to this country as an electronic engineer. While employed as a technician in Virginia, he also began working in restaurants, moving from the Far East restaurant in Maryland to a partnership in the New Pagoda restaurant in Boston.

This is his first venture as sole owner. He runs North China with his wife, Teresa, who is also a native of Szchuan.

Four Chefs Kept Busy. For his kitchen, Mr. Sung wanted storage and working space and all new equipment for his four chefs. It is large in proportion to the rest of the restaurant.

Along one wall, he had installed a row of "super hot" gas burners, which are surrounded by circulating water to help keep the outside cool. To prepare a typical entree, a chef pours small amount of oil in a metal wok which becomes hot in a matter of seconds.

BUSINESS In Princeton

"We cook each dish in one to two minutes," said Mr. Sung. After each portion is cooked, the wok is washed and the next portion added, and the entree prepared in this step-by-step method.

Mr. Sung's head chef is Ken Nen-Li, who had previously cooked for well-known hotels and inns on Taiwan.

A Wide Choice. The cuisine at North China is Mandarin and Szchuan. The menu is a large one. To warn diners, the hotter and spicy Szchuan style selections are starred.

Two specialities, says Mr. Sung, are shredded beef with hot sauce and shrimp with hot ginger sauce. Peking Duck? Of course.

Mr. Sung will also cater and serve for banquets in private homes and there is a take-out service. Included on the take-out list are 11 appetizers, six soups, 20 seafood, 20 poultry, 19 beef and 9 pork dishes. Also, seven vegetables, four noodles and rice and five chaw mein, chop suey and egg foo yung choices.

Colorful and ornate Oriental chandeliers hang from the dining room ceiling. Red leather booths and a large mirror running to the ceiling line one wall; an expensive new print from Taiwan, of which Mr. Sung is proud, dominates the opposite wall.

Scattered around are Oriental pictures and prints, including a small cluster of pictures made from real jewelry and small pieces of coral.

North China is open Monday through Thursday from 11:30 to 10 p.m.; Friday and Saturday to 11 p.m. and Sunday from 4 to 10.

News Of The THEATRES

SUMMER 'INTIME'

But New Name. It's "Princeton Summer Theatre" this year, but old friends will recognize it as Summer Intime. The location will be the same – Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus, and advance publicity says there have been some "physical modificationa" in the theatre including a refurbished refreshment area and lobby.

"The Devil's Disciple," by George Bernard Shaw, will open the Season June 26, playing through that Sunday, June 29, and continuing on July 3-6.

"The Sorcerer," by Gilbert and Sullivan, follows, with production dates of July 10-13, 17-20 and 24-27.

"The Mound Builders," by Lanford Wilson will occupy July 31 to August 3 and August 7-10.

"Night Watch," by Lucille Fletcher, will conclude the season with performances August 14-17 and 21-24.

The Shaw play is laid in the American Revolution, and draws on the campaign of the British general "Gentleman Johnny" Burgoyne. Dick Dudgeon, is Shaw's rebel hero.

The Gilbert and Sullivan plot concerns the happenings in an English village when the local sorcerer slips a love-at-first-sight potion into the afternoon tea.

Lanford Wilson won the Pulitzer Prize this year with his "Talley's Folley." Princeton Summer Theatre's offering is set in a summertime archaeological dig in Illinois, and explores the themes of family and changing values.

A play of suspense, combining mystery and murder, "Night Watch" is set on the east side of New York, the lower east side, where a murder takes place in an abandoned warehouse across from a fashionable townhouse.

Subscriptions for the season, at $16.50, may be obtained through Princeton Summer Theatre, Hamilton Murray Theatre, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

'LAST TANGO'

And "Goodbar." Two films dealing with sexuality and violence in explicit terms, will open the Summer Cinema '80 program sponsored by McCarter Theatre. Films will be screened at 7:30 Wednesday, Thursdays and Sundays and 8 on Fridays and Saturdays in Kresge auditorium on the University campus.

"Last Tango in Paris" stars Marlon Brando as a middle-aged American widower who sets up an apartment for afternoons of sexual encounter with an anonymous young girl. The film, X-rated, was described by Pauline Kael as "the most powerfully erotic and liberating movie of our time," and McCarter says "it still (after its 1972 release) manages to shock, antagonize and embarrass audiences unprepared for its presentation of the ecstasies and limitations of sexual passion."

"Looking for Mr. Goodbar," on television recently with many cuts, will be shown in its entirety. Like the book from which it is taken, it captures the dark side of life in New York's singles bars. Diane Keaton's pick-up partners include Richard Gere in his first major screen role. With its explicit sex and violence, McCarter warns, "the film is not for the squeamish."

MUSICAL SCHEDULED

At Mercer County College. "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" will be presented at Mercer County Community College's West Windsor Kelsey Theatre June 20, 21, 27, 28 and 29.

Directed by William J. Flynn, the play marks MCCC's entry into summer theatre. Musical direction is by Art Frank; settings by John C. Schenck.

"Forum," by Bert Shevlove and Larry Gelbart, is based on material written by the Roman playwright Plautus. K. Eric Metz heads the cast in the role made famous by Zero Mostel. Other cast members include James Vragel, Vincent Zarate, Barry Mulligan and Laurie Sasso.

Performances will be given at 8 p.m. June 20, 21, 27 and 28; a 2 p.m. matinee will be given Sunday, June 29. Admission is $4 for adults, $2 for MCCC students and alumni, children under 12 and senior citizens.

Reservations are suggested. Tickets may be purchased at the Kelsey Theatre box office weekdays from 1 to 5 or call 586-4695 for reservations.

on stage at 8 at the Gibbons Field Outdoor Theatre, Douglass College. Admission is free.

The festival will also feature a two-week run of Jean Anouilh's comedy, "Waltz of the Toreadors" in a Rutgers University Theatre Company production. These performances, starting Tuesday, will be at 8 in Levin Theatre, Douglass College, and admission will be charged.

Also on the program for the festival, which will run through August 17, is a sculpture exhibit featuring the works of Mel Edwards, opening next week, and two other plays, "Extremities" by William Mastrosimone, and "The Last Minstrel Show" by Joe Taylor Ford.

"PIPPIN"

At Open Air Theatre. Although the first-born son of the Emperor Charlemagne might seem an unlikely subject for a musical, "Pippin" ran on Broadway for four years, and will appear on stage at the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing State Park this Thursday through Saturday, and Thursday through Saturday, June 26-28. Rain dates are June 22 and 29, and curtain time on all nights is 8:30.

"Pippin" is presented under the banner of the Neshaminy Players, with Pippin played by Craig Evans, who has starred in every Neshaminy production in the theatre since 1974. His boisterous grandmother will be Betty Messinger, and Charlemagne himself will be David McGinley. Herman Sebak is the God-Devil figure who conjures up the shows.

The predatory stepmother will be Melanie Noblit; Charlie Weiss will be the half-brother who wants a throne for himself, and Becky Spencer is the lovely widow who captures Pippin's heart.

Stephen Schwartz, of "Godspell" fame, wrote the score. Roger O. Hirson did the book.

TRYOUTS!

For Street Theatre. "Bring your Bogart imitations," advises Street Theatre, advertising auditions for ST's tenth season opener, "Play It Again, Sam." Auditions for Princeton's young actors will be held next Monday and Tuesday at 7 in ST's headquarters, Princeton Community Village, which is at the head of Bunn Drive, off North Harrison Street.

If you're not Bogart, you're invited anyway, because "Play It Again, Sam" has lots of parts, and Street Theatre is always looking for tech crew.

Two workshops have also been announced. "Improvisation for Theatre" will be held June 23 to 27, and "Beginning Broadway Dance" from June 30 to July 3. Registration information may be obtained from Debbie Bellow, 882-0646 or 924-7452.

On Monday, June 30 at 1 p.m., auditions will be held for "Best of Fractured Fairy Fables," which will be performed in August.

POPS CONCERT PLANNED

As July 4 Festivity. Fourth of July festivities will begin on Thursday, July 3, with the fourth annual Princeton Pops Concert, featuring the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra and soloist Clamma Dale.

The concert will be held on the Princeton University fields east of Palmer Stadium, with gates opening at 5:30 for picnicking. The Orchestra, conducted by Thomas Michalak, will perform at 7:30, with a fireworks display following the concert.

Clamma Dale, internationally-known soprano and opera star, will sing "Musetta's Waltz" from Puccini's "La Boheme," "Casta Diva" from Bellini's "Norma" and "Ritorna Vicitor" from Verdi's "Aida," among other favorites.

Acclaimed as Bess in the Broadway and Houston productions of "Porgy and Bess," Miss Dale made her operatic debut with the New York City Opera in 1975 as Antonia in "The Tales of Hoffman." She has also appeared with the Opera Company of Philadelphia, Houston Grand Opera, Santa Fe Opera and Strasbourg Opera and in performances with the New York, Boston, Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Minnesota and Buffalo orchestras.

SOLOIST: Clamma Dale will be the soloist with the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra at the fourth annual Princeton Pops Concert on July 3.

Benefit to Youth. Using its mobile sound stage, a gift of the Robert Wood Johnson, Jr. Charitable Trust, the Orchestra will play such favorite "pops" classics as Bernstein's "West Side Story," Strauss Waltzes, Sousa Marches and Stravinsky's "Fireworks." Benefitting area youth services and helping to sustain the symphony, the Princeton Pops Concert is sponsored by the Princeton Chapter of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra League, the YWCA Pearl Bates Scholarship Fund and the Youth Fund.

The local chapter of the orchestra league funds and presents concerts by the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra to area school children, promotes "Young Artists Auditions" for talented young musicians and sponsors rehearsal "look-ins" at Symphony Hall in Newark for high school music students.

The YWCA's Pearl Bates Scholarship Fund helps support After-School Day Care Programs for children of working parents, the YWCA Summer Day Camp and other YWCA programs for young people whose economic situation would otherwise prevent their participation.

The Princeton Youth Fund has allocated funds to Princeton Education Center at Blairstown and Stony Brook-Millatone Watersheds Association for young campers and junior leaders. It has also supported Creative Theater Unlimited, Princeton Street Theater and Helikon among several other area youth projects.

Soda and popsicles will be sold at the concert to benefit the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation.

Tickets may be purchased in advance by mail before Monday from the YWCA, Paul Robeson Place, or in person at the YWCA and at Princeton area banks and savings and loan associations. Prices are $5 for adults ($6 when purchased at the gate), $3 for students and seniors and $1 for persons under 18. Telephone inquiries are handled by the Chamber of Commerce, 921-7676.

In case of rain, the concert will be held in Jadwin Gym at Princeton University where picnicking is not permitted. The fireworks will be rescheduled for after dark on Saturday, July 5 on the Princeton University fields. Parking is available in lots off Washington Road, including the Jadwin Gym and Palmer Stadium lots.

QUARTET TO PLAY

In Summer Series. The Audubon String Quartet will present the second program in the Princeton University Summer Chamber Concert Series on Wednesday evening, June 25 at 8:30 in the North Court of the Graduate College. In the event of rain, the concert will take place in Alexander Hall. If the weather is uncertain, call 924-2353 on the day of the concert only to determine the concert location.

These concerts are free, and the North Court of the Graduate College makes a lovely setting. No chairs will be provided so the audience, which will be seated on the lawn, is advised to bring blankets. Ample free parking is available in the lot adjoining the Graduate College, the entrance to which is off Springdale Road.

The program will include the Quartett-Satz of Schubert; the Quartet in C Major, Opus 59, No. 3 by Beethoven; and the Quartet in A minor, Opus 51, No. 2 by Brahms.

The Audubon Quartet was formed in 1974 and since that time it has developed a reputation as one of the finest chamber music ensembles performing today. Its members are Dennis Cleveland, violin; Sharon Smith, violin; Doris Lederer, viola; and Thomas Shaw, cello. The quartet is presently in residence at Marywood College in Scranton, Pa., and has performed throughout the United States, Europe, and South America. Among its honors was an invitation to perform at the White House for President Carter and Israeli Prime Minister Begin.

In 1977, the Audubon String Quartet became the first American string quartet to win top prizes in two international competitions. At the International String Quartet Competition in Evian, France, they won first prize for interpretation of contemporary music. In Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, they won another first prize at the International String Quartet Competition at the Villa-Lobos Festival.

Music in Princeton

listeners are welcome. Scores are provided for those who do not have them. The place: the air-conditioned Bristol Chapel on the Westminster campus. Time: 8 p.m.

Jon Bailey will conduct the Brahms "Requiem" on Tuesday. Dr. Bailey is Associate Professor of Choral Music, Conductor of the Concert Choir, and Director of the Institute of Sacred Music at Yale University.

On July 8, William Trego, Director of Vocal Music at Princeton High School and conductor of the Princeton University Freshman Singers, will conduct the Beethoven "Mass in C." A Westminster graduate, he will be teaching several workshops for some of the 1,800 professional musicians expected on the Westminster campus this summer.

James Litton, on July 15, will conduct the Mozart "Coronation Mass." Also a Westminster graduate, Mr. Litton is Minister of Music at Trinity Church. During August, his Choir of Men, Boys and Girls from the church will tour England, Germany and Holland singing in such places as Winchester and Canterbury Cathedral.

Ray Robinson, President of Westminster Choir College, will conduct the Vivaldi "Gloria" and Stravinsky "Symphony of Psalms" on July 22. Joseph Flummerfelt, head of choral activities at the Choir College and conductor of Westminster Choir, will conduct the Mozart "Requiem" on July 29. Dr. Flummerfelt is presently participating in both the Spoleto U.S.A. Festival in Charleston, S.C. and Spoleto Festival, Spoleto, Italy, where the Westminster Choir is chorus-in-residence.

The last sing will be conducted by Allen Crowell on August 5 and will include the Bach "Magnificat" and Schubert "Mass in G." Mr. Crowell, a Westminster graduate, returned to his alma mater this past year as Associate Professor of Conducting and Conductor of The Westminster Oratorio Choir. For 20 years he was soloist and then conductor of the U.S. Army Chorus in Washington D.C.

RECITALS LISTED

At Choir College, Pianists and organists from as far away as Hawaii, Washington, Florida, Mississippi and Oklahoma will come to Westminster Choir College next week for summer session workshops. Coordinated by Phyllis Lehrer and Joan Lippincott, heads of the piano and organ departments, experts will give workshops in the art and techniques of keyboard playing and teaching.

During the week, four programs will be open to the public without charge. There will be a piano recital by Vivian Taylor on Wednesday, June 25 at 7 in Bristol Chapel, followed by an organ recital in the Charley Memorial Room at 8:30 by Eugene Roan. William Cheadle will give a lecture-recital on Aaron Copland in Bristol Chapel Thursday, June 26, at 7, followed by an organ recital by Joan Lippincott at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street.

Ms. Taylor is on the faculty at Tufts University and a recitalist. She is devoted to the promotion of contemporary music – particularly music of Black and women composers -- and will present a program of works by Talib Rusul Hakim, Elizabeth Vercoe, Fredrick Tillis, T.J. Anderson and Marga Richter.

Eugene Roan, associate professor of organ at Westminster and organist-choirmaster at St. Thomas Church, Whitemarsh, Pa., will give a program of Baroque music on the Fisk tracker-action organ -- Westminster's newest Baroque-style instrument.

William Cheadle, Associate Professor of piano at Westminster, will present a lecture-recital illustrating the 80-year-old Aaron Copland's unique, yet changing style of composition for piano. He will play three major pieces: "Passacaglia" (1922), "Variations" (1930), "Sonata" (1941) and several "teaching pieces" including "Cat and Mouse" (1919) and "Down a Country Lane" (1967). Joan Lippincott, one of this country's foremost women organists and much sought-after as a recitalist, will give a recital of Bach and others on the Trinity Church Casavant instrument.

HYMN SINGS SET

At Choir College. "Gather people together for the purpose simply of singing hymns, and no matter what the program is, the singing will be hearty and alert. In Tennessee where they have those singing marathons that run all through the night, I know you can, as it were, get drunk on hymns," says Dr. Erick Routley of Westminster Choir College.

Dr. Routley and Alice Parker will be conducting "Hymn Sings" from June 23 through August 4 on consecutive Monday nights, beginning this Monday through August 4 at the Choir College. The public is invited to attend and participate.

Dr. Routley is a world authority on hymnody, an author of hymns and books about hymns, and a professor of church music at Westminster. He is a minister and musician with a keen wit and the ability to make the prosaic, exciting. "Hymns come alive," he says "when attended to."

Ms. Parker's fame as a composer, arranger, and conductor has made her a household word to musicians and a recognizable name to church and concert-goers. As well as being a composer and arranger in her own right she has long been a collaborator of Robert Shaw.

The categories of the summer hymn sings are as follows: June 23, John the Baptist: The Saint of Midsummer; June 30, Hymns by the Wesleys; July 7, Hymns of the Church Year; July 14, Hymns with Young People in Mind; July 21, Creative Hymn Singing; July 28, Creative Hymn Singing; August 4, Poets and Musicians in Hymnody. All hymn sings are at 8, except June 30 which is at 8:30.

CHORUS TO PERFORM

At Choir College. The Rio Hondo College Chamber Singers from Whittier, Calif., on a concert tour of the east coast, will perform in Bristol Chapel Friday, June 27, at 8 as season of the Westminster Choir College.

This group of 20 college singers will sing, as their major work, the Ralph Vaughan-Williams "Mass in G Minor" for double choir and four soloists, a cappella. Musical numbers by Viadana, Lotti, Brahms, Bartok, and Diemer are included in the first half of the program, with selections of popular music concluding the concert.

Directed by Al Jessup, with Ken Hardin accompanying, the Chamber Singers last year toured England and Scotland, and were the first choral group to inaugurate the new Edinburgh Philharmonic Hall after the dedication by Queen Elizabeth. Prior to appearing in a major concert in St. Giles' Cathedral, Edinburgh, they were previewed by the British Broadcasting Company. They were sponsored in Glasgow by the Chorus of the Scottish National Orchestra and received standing ovations.

The concert is free to the public.

PHS Choir Invited to Sing at Convention Of American Choral Directors Next March

"Best in Class" is the blue ribbon pinned on the Princeton High School Choir, which has been invited to sing for the national convention of the American Choral Directors Association in New Orleans next March. According to choir director William Trego, the A.C.D.A. is "the most prestigious organization for choral music in the United States."

Tapes made by PHS choirs of the last three years passed both state and eastern division auditions, and were sent to the national committee which named a "Best in Class" representing each area and grade level of choral music. Princeton High's choir was "best" for high school concert choirs. Only one other choir was chosen from the eastern division – the Harvard Glee Club.

PHS's 75-voice choir competed, in New Jersey, against 35 other tapes, Mr. Trego said. Selections included the Brahms motet "Schaffe in mir;" part of the Durufle Requiem; the final movement of Pinkham's Sinfonia Sacre and another Brahms motet, "Warum ist des Light Gegeben."

Mr. Trego has directed the choir since 1965. His full-time associate since 1968, has been Nancianne Parrella. All choir recordings were made by Joachim Parrella.

PRINTS CELEBRATED

At E.T.S. The technical vocabulary of the printmaker has expanded in recent years to include new ways of expressing familiar imagea. At the same time the definition of artistic form has been enlarged to include many types of subject matter that were not even considered art a few decades ago.

The technical expansion of printmaking has provided artists with a great many new ways to make a print. New materials have been developed and unconventional materials have been adopted by the printmaker (TOWN TOPICS, June 4) to create collographic printing plates which offer surfaces and textures previously unseen. Techniques auch aa etching and lithography, which had remained unchanged for centuries, have been technically expanded to allow their use in an age when the final artistic product includes effects that were neither conceivable nor desirable a few decadea ago.

"In Celebration of Prints" an exhibition of current work in printmaking, organized by the Print Club of Philadelphia and currently on display at the Henry Chauncey Conference Center at E.T.S., provides an opportunity to view a variety of new graphic forms. Although the program begins with a disclaimer by Ofelia Garcia, director of the graphica association, the collection does, indeed, provide a great many examples of what is current in printmaking.

This happily includes a variety in style and subject matter, and examples of a great many different technical approaches which almost guarantee something in this diverse and flexible medium for everyone to enjoy. Traditional forms of realism, and the more avant-garde use of the literal image as symbol, source of whimsy, and mystery, are presented together with colorful geometric designs, shaped and cut prints in a variety of virtuoso technical performances which make this a true celebration of what is fine in printmaking.

At The Princeton University Art Museum. In the seventeenth century, snuff replaced tobacco as a popular habit. Although it was not legal, like similar habits today, it was widely practiced, first by the aristocracy and later by those fortunate enough to acquire some snuff.

Unlike the Europeans, who carried their snuff in small, elaborate boxes, the Chinese preferred the bottle. The wide appetite for snuff, and the resulting need for a container, generated imperial workshops in which the finest artisans and craftsmen designed and created exquisite little bottles topped by equally beautiful stoppers. They were made of intrinsically beautiful materials. Jade, coral, quartz, lapis, turquoise and other semi-precious stones were carved and turned to create surface ornaments which included dragons and flowers, fish, people and a combination of symbols.

Porcelains, glass and several forms of enamel work were used to develop decorations which included complete landscapes, elaborate figure compositions and complex flower arrangements in the eloquent patterns and balances that are peculiar to oriental art.

Examples of these, and many more, forms of the snuff bottle are included in the collection of Colonel James A. Blair ('03) on display at the museum.

These tiny but complete works of art include an almost overwhelming variety of color, pattern, silhouette and materials. There are bottles shaped like fish, people and vegetables. Jewelled butterflies and tiny dolls are painted, glazed and turned.

The ornate enamelware includes Cloisonne, champcluding crystal and milk glass, are used, and a myriad of other rich materials. The elegance of the work and the quality of the carving, painting and combination of materials makes this collection an exciting one to contemplate.

These small containers make great aesthetic demands upon the viewer because of the complexity and richness of the work in the individual pieces.

It is always a treat to view a private collection. Unlike more formal museum shows, which require a common theme to tie the works together, the private collection includes the variety that is the result of individual taste, and often provides an eclectic mix which is the privilege of the private collector.

Gordon Chadwick's collection of prints spans several hundred years. Prints by Pisarro and Vuillard complement the contemporary vigor of works by Avery, Frasconi, and Baskin.

Among the more classical prints are works by Whistler, Peter Breughel the younger, and a Van Dyck. Many other works, etchings and lithographs, representing many different ages and stages of the print make the display both instructive in content and enjoyable because of the quality and the range of included works.

At Gallery 100, Joy Barth uses her paint to create attractive combinations of color and space in her current collection. Landscape and still life are used as a vehicle for fine spatial arrangement and a painterly presentation of color.

The artist is capable of handling space in a dramatic fashion, breaking up forms and making the entire surface work very hard. There are a few traditional paintings in the collection and, in these, the subject is well presented. However, it is in the visually dramatic creative pieces that this artist's control over her medium is most apparent.

–Helen Schwartz

JOINT EXHIBIT OPEN

Of Contemporary Art. A joint exhibit of contemporary art will go on display this Wednesday at the Princeton University Art Museum and at the headquarters of the Commodities Corporation on Mt. Lucas Road. The Art Museum exhibit will run through August 17.

The exhibit is a sampling of an evolving collection of contemporary art now being assembled for the Commodities Corporation by Prof. Sam Hunter of Princeton's Department of Art and Archaeology. With some 70 items assembled to date, the collection is about half-complete, and includes paintings, drawings, mixed media objects, photographs and video art by established and emerging artists.

Prof. Hunter combined his collecting efforts with a graduate seminar held this spring on art of the 1970s, using items from the collection in discussion and analysis of current art trends. Student critiques of the objects form part of the Art Museum exhibit, and student essays will be included in a catalog of the exhibit when it eventually travels to other American museums. The students will also give docent tours of the exhibit for employees at the Commodities Corporation headquarters.

SAMPLERS ON VIEW

In Cranbury. A collection of samplers from the 1800's is on exhibit at the Cranbury Historical Museum, 2 Park Place, Cranbury, through July.

The majority of samplers on display were loaned by private collectors and would not ordinarily be available to the public. A prize example is an 1839 sampler–an intricate picture of the old New York Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, done in variations of the satin stitch and hundreds of miniscule french knots.

Many of the samplers were done by young girls, ages 9-13, using a technique called count stitch embroidery. The finely woven fabrics used for these required tiny, precisely placed stitches. One can imagine that many tears and pricked fingers mingled with the needlework.

The Cranbury Historical Museum is open on Saturdays and Sundays from 2-5. Admission is free.

CURRENT EXHIBITS

An exhibit of photographs by Ken Kaplowitz is on display in Lounge B at Educational Testing Service, Rosedale Road, until July 15. Hours are 9-11 and 1:30-4, closed weekends. Mr. Kaplowitz is Chairman of the Media Communication Science Department, Trenton State College.

WE REMEMBER CATHLIN: Littlebrook fifth-graders hold a mock-up of the memorial outdoor deck to be conatructed at the school in memory of Cathlin Haiang, a Littlebrook student who died last year. The deck will be an adjunct to the school library for use in warm weather. Karen Halsteed (left) and Susann Spies are holding the model. The fund-raising committee for the deck consists of Mrs. William H. Angoff, Mrs. Herbert Horowitz, Mrs. Stanley Pazdan and Mrs. G. P. Volpp.

SPORTS FANS I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to You by John Bernard

Talk about courage in sports--did you know there was a man with just one leg who played major league baseball? ... Bert Shepard lost his right leg in World War II, but he learned to walk and run on an artificial leg--and he made the majors as a pitcher with the Washington Senators ... Shepard played big league baseball in the 1945 season.

Of all the big league baseball parks in this century, which one had the SHORTEST distance from home plate to an outfield fence? ... It was the Los Angeles Coliseum, which the Dodgers used as their home field from 1958 through 1961 ... Home plate to left field was only 251 feet.

Ask about our new life insurance policy for non-smokers. Low rates.

Do you know that outfielder Dave Kingman of the Chicago Cubs has one of the highest frequencies of striking out in big league baseball history? ... Going into this season, Kingman had 3,584 career at bats and struck out 1,095 times--meaning he has struck out almost one out of every three times up ... Other current regular players who have a high career strike out ratio are Reggie Jackson, Bobby Bonds and Willie Stargell who have all averaged about one strike out every four times up.

Young Post 76 Ball Team Battles Inexperience As Its Record Dips to 1-4-1 in County League

To say that Princeton Post 76 did not have a good week last week is "putting it mildly," said coach Pete Millington.

Princeton lost three and tied one as its record dipped to 1-4-1 in the ten-team Mercer County American Legion League. "Truthfully, we're better than we've been playing," said Millington. "We're just not executing ... and we have to do that if we want to win. We need a little more confidence in ourselves."

Princeton will play three times in the next four days, as it tries to climb back into contention. Thursday, it will oppose Hamilton at 5:45 at Mercer County Park. Then on the weekend in a pair of 1:45 contests at Princeton University's Clarke Field, it will meet Lawrence on Saturday and Ewing on Sunday.

In three of last week's four games, Millington commented that Princeton should have won. "We gave it away after having the game in hand."

Early Lead Lost. Only in Sunday's 12-1 loss to Bordentown was the decision one-sided and even then, Princeton led, 1-0, after the first five and a half innings. Princeton scored its lone run in the first after Mark Adams singled, advanced to third when Tom Scibetta's single to center was bobbled and scored on Brent Robinson's sacrifice fly.

But Bordentown broke through for a pair of runs in the sixth. It added three more the next inning and iced the game with a seven-run deluge in the eighth, the big blow a three-run triple by Dave Dominici. Montgomery Township's John Majarwitz was charged with the loss.

The other games were all in the what-might-have-been category: a 9-8 setback to unbeaten Hightstown Saturday, a 3-3 standoff with Hopewell Thursday and a 5-4 edging by Broad Street Park earlier in the week.

Millington said that he attributed the slow start by Princeton to two things: "We're inexperienced and very young, and we haven't had as many practices as we'd like to." Ironically, some of the things that have gone wrong, he added, are the very things the team has concentrated on in practice.

An example of costly breakdowns was the Hightstown game. PHS led 5-1 after five innings but allowed Hightstown to score four runs in both the sixth and seventh frames. "They were mostly unearned runs," said Millington. Errors of commission and ommission were disastrous."

Princeton was guilty of three throwing errors in the game, two by losing pitcher Judd Petrone on throws to first base. Centerfielder Scibetta had three hits and left fielder John Kandell two, to account for half of Princeton's 10 hits.

Neither team hit the ball hard in the game with Hopewell, which was called after nine on account of darkness. Princeton had five hits -- two each by shortstop Brent Robinson and catcher Scott Stebbins -- while Hopewell mustered four off Princeton pitchers Scott Webber and Andy Kulinski.

Hopewell tied it with a run in the sixth. "We had the runner out at third by 15 feet but the catcher threw the ball into left field," said Millington.

Princeton began the week by taking a 4-1 lead over Broad Street Park. But two key errors – one of ommission -- allowed BSP to score four runs and steal a 5-4 win.

One was a pop-up in left field on which the shortstop should have made the play; the other was a booted double play ball at short. "If we even got one out we probably would have won the game," said Millington.

MEN'S SINGLES PLANNED

Ptay Starts Saturday. Ed Beacham, tournament director for the Princeton Community Tennis Program's summer adult tournaments, has announced that a men's singles tournament will be held as part of National Tennis Week. Play begins Saturday and will continue through the weekend, with semi-final and final matches being played later in the week.

This year's tournament has a new format--an "A" and a "B" division. Based on the new National Tennis Rating Program, players with a rating of 4.6 to 7.0 will compete in the "A" division, while those players with a 1.0 to 4.5 rating will compete in the "B" division. Ratings are determined by reading the Guidelines to NTRP Rating Categories and self-evaluating one's tennis game.

The Guideline pamphlets as well as applications for the tournament, are available at the Tennis Office, 71 University Place, Princeton.

Entry blanks must be submitted to the Tennis Office no later than Thursday noon. For applications or further information, contact the Tennis Office, 924-4343.

AWARDS PRESENTED

To PHS Baseball Players. At an awards dinner held Friday night ot the Chambers Street Firehouse, four players on the Princeton High School baseball team were honored with post-season awards.

Mark Adams, who has been described as the most honored PHS baseball player ever to perform for the Little Tigers, received yet another accolade. He was chosen by his teammates as the team's Most Valuable Player.

The coaches' award for Most Improved Player was presented to junior catcher Danny Miller, while the Sportsmanship Award was shared by relief pitcher Andy Kulinski and senior Frank Delnesco. They were selected by their teammates.

Adams aa MVP was an overwhelming choice by his teammates, said PHS coach Jim O'Neill. "Certainly he was the most deserving; he deserves all the credit and attention he's been getting," said O'Neill, who added that he was pleased that his own teammates had recognized Adams's ability.

"He boosts everybody's feeling of confidence when he's in there. He's just an outstanding natural athlete."

A Solid Choice. Because there were so many improved players on the team, O'Neill said that he felt the Most Improved Player was especially meaningful this year. He had no doubt, however, that Miller had improved more than anyone.

Miller was a jayvee catcher last year but, "he didn't show us much," said O'Neill. This past summer, Miller lifted weights and got himself in shape, he said. "He realized that he wanted to be a starter for two years and he had to begin producing.

"He's eager to learn, he asks for guidance, he tries to study all the batters and given situations ... he wants to be a field general like a catcher has to be."

Miller threw out 15 runners trying to steal this spring. "That's by far the most in the six years I've been here," said O'Neill. And it wasn't just those 15, commented O'Neill; it was all the other runners he kept from stealing, who might have had an inclination to go until they saw Miller's arm.

For the Sportsmanship Award, O'Neill reported that there were so many in the running it was not surprising that two received the same number of votes.

He described Kulinski as "a nice mellow kid," who came on to be his top-rated relief pitcher. He had a slight mid-season slump, "but he came back and earned everyone's admiration."

Delneso is one of those who also serve while sitting and waiting. A senior, he never got to play very much. "But he never complained," said O'Neill. "He never complained about not playing, he never complained about practices ... he's just a nice kid to have on the team."

EAGLES, ELKS, 76 WIN

In PYBA Little League. The Eagles, Elks and Post 76 each scored a pair of victories last week in the Princeton Youth Baseball Association.

The Eagles, 3-1 for the season, blanked Century 21, 12-0, Teddy Perna getting the win. Jad Daley belted a base-clearing triple and Bruno Di Donato had two singles and a double.

The Eagles then outlasted Engine Co. No. 3, 14-10, as Perna received good defensive and batting support. Daley contributed three triples. Engine Co. No. 3 staged a comeback midway through the game on a series of home runs. Chan Kinchla slugged a pair and Danny Caskey, John Stefanchik and Darius Young each connected once.

The Elks defeated Roma Eterna, 8-1. Peter Guthrie's single and home run combined for four RBIs, while Paul Fisher's two singles brought in three more. Keith Howland connected for a single and pitchers Doug Davis and Paul Fisher combined for 11 strike outs.

Yates was the winning pitcher in a 16-10 victory over Engine Co. No. 1 with seven strikeouts. David Ercolano, Yates, James Womack and Marty Longman each had triples, Ercolano belting two.

Kirk Williams was the winning pitcher in Post 76's 10-5 win over Engine Co. No. 3. Post sluggers Paul Crystal and Craig McNair each had a pair of singles and Gary Beer a triple.

For the losers, John Stefanchik was 4-for-4 and Greg Savidge stroked two singles. In a 14-1 decision over Century 21, Post 76 continued to wield a big bat. Winning pitcher Scott Fisher had a double in going 4-for-4.

In its finest effort of the young season, Italian-American routed Roma Eterna, 19-2. Pitcher John Berry, aided by outstanding defense, held Roma to a pair of runs. Matt Williams, Bruce Goodman and Jerry Dismukes led the victors at the plate.

Engine Co. No. 1 posted its first victory of the season with an 18-1 decision over Italian-American. Fred Young was the winning pitcher and Billy Scott connected for two home runs.
